Linea Greta 2015 Late Harvest Red

No, this is not an Amarone, simply because it is made in Sicily and with 100% Nero d'Avola grapes. It is Nino Gandolfo's flagship, dedicated to his lovely daughter Greta.

Unlike in the north the grapes are not dried in cases in a air-conditioned/heated room or attic, neither on mats in the sun or under plastic tunnels like passito wines, but simply late harvested, being dried by the late Sicilian autumn sun and winds that protect against mildew diseases.

The result is spectacular. A natural bomb of fruit, obviously linked with the very low yields and the exceptional dry matter content. Residual sugars, high alcohol, present but well covered acidity, and sweet tannins are in perfect balance. To be considered that this is a young wine, with only a few months of oak aging.

The NEVT can be drunk in almost all circumstances. In good company, with family or friends, or simply to meditate. It can accompany a great lunch or dinner all along, or just be used to bridge the gap between second course and desert, especially in case the latter will be a Sachertorte ...

The bottle comes in an individual gift carton, packed per six bottles in a transportation case.
